

Are Security Officers First Responders?

Security Officers are definitely part of the first responder family. Next to police, firefighters, and EMT's, etc., security officers are called upon during the toughest times. In fact, there are more security officers working in most city's than there are police officers. During the COVID 19 pandemic this became more known. Our officers went out in public during a very dangerous time. When business owners were confined to their homes during quarantine, our officers had to go out and secure buildings, protect assets, and makes sure our clients were safe. Next time you see a security officer on duty, show some love. Our jobs never stop, even in rain, sleet, snow, or even a global pandemic. Praetorian Guard Services can be counted on 24/7 to get the job done, no matter what!
